Talk Scheduled On Job Center

"The Southern California Regional Occupational Center" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Dr. Wayne L. Butterbaugh at a luncheon meeting of the South Bay Harbor Industry Education Council tomorrow at noon at the Indian Village Restaurant.

Dr. Butterbaugh is superintendent of the new center, scheduled to open in February at 2300 Crenshaw Blvd. A unique institution to be jointly conducted by six public school districts in the Southwest area, the occupational center is designed to supplement the efforts of area schools in preparing students for employment.

order to assist continuing development and improvement of education programs which have direct or indirect relations with industry. Luncheon reservations may be obtained by calling Martin Gregg at the occupational center.

DESCRIBED as "a new approach to total education" the center will open in February with 800 enrollees — youngsters and adults — in six training programs, including office machines, data processing, medical and dental assisting, major appliance repair, and welding.

Dr. Butterbaugh assumed the superintendency of the center in September after serving for eight years as superintendent of the Palos Verdes Peninsula School District.

A graduate of LaVerne College, Dr. Butterbaugh received his doctorate from the University of Southern California in 1955 and served as superintendent of the Simi Valley Unified School District and the Savana School District in Orange County prior to becoming superintendent of the Palos Verdes Peninsula School District.

THE SOUTH Bay-Harbor chapter is a local affiliate of the Industry-Education Council of Southern California. Its goal is to promote and encourage communication and cooperation between industry and schools in this area in
